Musiandra is a European ERASMUS+ project that brings together young and young-at-heart adults from Iceland, Turkey, France, Austria and Germany through music and theatre.

Learning and playing music and theatre together transnationally overcomes language barriers, brings people together and develops friendships with an artistic touch across all borders.

The special feature of this project is the basic idea of personal intercultural and creative exchange as well as online artistic activities such as rehearsals, workshops, and concerts.

This is an aspect that stands out in the context of Covid-19, which - after initial difficulties such as immature software systems and the realization of short delay times for online music-making - has undergone an extremely positive development.

The final event on 30 June 2023 will present the results, experiences and lessons learned from this project with film clips, a photo exhibition, a panel discussion, and a concert based on online rehearsals.
